STAFF SERGEANT RYERSON IN ARMY NINE MONTHS

Mrs. Grace (Foster) Ryerson of East Bethel and Locke Mills has received notice that her husband, Elmer Ryerson, has been promoted to Staff Sergeant in the Army Air Corps. Sgt. Ryerson entered the armed forces on Dec. 31, 1941, receiving his preliminary training at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. He was transferred from there to Keesler Field, Miss., and completed his training there on Aug. 8, 1942, being graduated as an airplane mechanic. He was transferred to Tyndall Field, Fla., for advanced training, and was graduated as an aerial gunner (flexible) from the Army Airforce Gunnery School on Sept. 22, 1942. It was at this time he was promoted to Staff Sergeant. Previous to his enlistment he was employed as a mechanic at E. L. Tebbets Spool Co. in Locke Mills. Sgt. Ryerson is the son of Mrs. Florence Merrill of East Bethel, and is one of her four sons now in the service. He is stationed at Daniel Field, Augusta, Ga., for the present.

His brothers are 2nd Lieut. Hurschel Ryerson, the eldest, now in England. He is in the postal division of his unit. Pfc. Reginald Ryerson is at Camp Shelby, Miss., in the military police department, expecting to leave soon for officers training camp. Corporal James Ryerson is a gun artisan, at the present time stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., awaiting transfer. He has been recommended for officer's training, but being interested in guns and their mechanism, preferred to stay in his chosen field. Most of the early childhood of these boys was spent in East Bethel and Milton, the family moving to Bridgton when they were young. The boys are alumni of Bridgton Academy, with the exception of Pfc. Reginald, he being a graduate of Edward Little High in Auburn.

GREEN—GORDON

Miss Rebecca A. Gordon became the bride of Staff Sergeant Frank Green Jr., Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Methodist Church. Rev. M. A. Gordon, father of the bride, officiated, using the double ring service. The bride, attractively attired in soldier blue costume, with a corsage of red roses and white sweet peas, entered the church escorted by her father. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Harry Lyon, church organist.

The church was decorated by Mrs. Sherman S. Greenleaf, using baskets of gladioli, asters and fall flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families and a few friends. Refreshments were served by Betty Green and Rachel Gordon, sisters of the bride and bridegroom. A beautiful bride's cake was cut by the bride. The guest book was in charge of the bride's sister, Mrs. Horace Mitchell of Kittery.

Mrs. Green is a graduate of East Corinth Academy. The Favorite Academy of Beauty Culture, Portsmouth, N. H., and has been employed in the display department of J. C. Penny's store Lewiston.

Staff Sergeant Green graduated from the Arlington School, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and is now with the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Westover Field, Chicopee Falls, Mass.

Out of town guests were: Mr. Mrs. Oscar F. Green and daughter, Betty of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., parents and sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mitchell of Kittery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of Portland were recent guests of her mother, Mrs. F. E. Hanscom.

GOULD—HEBRON RESERVES TIED IN THURSDAY GAME

Gould Academy opened its 1942 season against the Hebron Reserves last week with a 0-0 deadlock. The local eleven, with only three veterans in the line-up, show promise, especially in their defensive play as they time and again threw the Hebron backs for losses. The open field blocking on both teams was noticeably weak. The new and untried men in the Gould backfield show plenty of promise, and with renewed efforts after their first real engagement, should give opposing teams plenty of trouble.

Rosenberg proved himself a good line backer and an excellent man behind the line on defense. Reid seemed way off form on his passes from center, but he was a titan on defense, breaking through the Hebron line to nail the ball carrier for losses on numerous occasions.

During the last half, Gould had a decided advantage, keeping the visitors always in the hole, as they made their way inside the 20-yard line on three occasions, only to lose the ball on fumble and intercepted passes.

An enthusiastic student body witnessed the game, and the Gould Academy band performed for the benefit of the fans.

GODDARD—LAWSON

Bethel friends of Frank A. Goddard are congratulating him on his marriage to Mrs. Leona Lawson of Brockton, Mass. The wedding took place in the Methodist Church at Brockton last Thursday, Oct. 1, Rev. R. Samuelson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard will reside on North Elm Street, West Bridgewater, Mass.

Mr. Goddard was employed in the local Grand Trunk station for several years and conducted a photographic studio, before going to West Bridgewater two years ago where he is now engaged in sales work.

(A Week of the War) FOODS, RENTS, WAGES CONTROLLED BY NEW CEILINGS, FREEZING

Following passage by Congress of the Second Price Control Act, President Roosevelt ordered ceilings placed over wages, salaries, profits, farm prices and rents, and appointed Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes as Director of Economic Stabilization with the job of developing a national economic policy.

Justice Byrnes resigned from the Court to accept the new position. He will have authority over all Government agencies in the economic field and will be assisted by a 14-man economic stabilization board composed of eight agency heads and six private citizens.

Maximum Prices and Rents
Immediately following the President's Executive Order, Price Administrator Henderson imposed emergency 60-day price ceilings on virtually all exempt food items, bringing 90 percent of the family food budget under rigid control. Previously only 60 percent was controlled. Under control for the first time are butter, cheese, evaporated and condensed milk, eggs, poultry, flour, dry onions, potatoes, fresh and canned fruits and juices, dry edible beans, cornmeal and mutton. Food retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and processors are affected. Each dealer's price is frozen at the highest level he charged in the five days Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, inclusive. The permanent ceilings later may entail some price reductions, Mr. Henderson said. He also completed new orders freezing all uncontrolled urban and rural rents at levels of last March 1.

Stabilization of Wages
The President's Order had the effect of freezing all wage rates for the time being until the National War Labor Board has a chance to act in individual cases. Wage rates may not be changed—up or down—without the approval of the NWLB. The Board may adjust wages "to correct maladjustments or inequalities, to eliminate substandards of living, to correct gross inequalities, or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

Farm Prices and Production
Mr. Roosevelt ordered prices of raw and processed agricultural commodities "stabilized, so far as practicable," at Sept. 15 levels and in conformity with the standards laid down in the new law. The new price control law provides farm price ceilings cannot be set below parity or below the highest market level between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15, 1942, whichever is higher. If such ceilings are too low to reflect increases in farm labor and other costs since Jan. 1, 1941, the President is directed to raise them.

The War Front
The Navy announced that U. S. Army troops, "covered and supported by units" of the U. S. Navy, have recently occupied positions in the Andreanof group of the Aleutian Islands. Occupation was effected without enemy opposition.

GOULD MEETS NORWAY HERE SATURDAY

The traditional rivals, Gould and Norway, will meet on Alumni Field Saturday at 2 p. m. On paper the two elevens "shape up" quite evenly matched. The visitors have the edge in number of games played, having three behind them. A loss to the Hebron Second team, a win over South Paris, and a tie with Kennett High of Conway, N. H., gives Norway a record that shows plenty of power.

The Gould outfit has been tested only once, that a 0-0 tie with the Hebron Reserves, a much weaker team than the Hebron that earlier defeated Norway. The defensive strength of the "Blue and Gold" proved strong, but there seemed a decided weakness in the offense. Coaches Fortier and Myers are working hard this week to iron out the scoring strength. Perhaps the green material will show considerable improvement over their initial performance.

The fans and students of Bethel are eagerly waiting for this engagement as the Gould-Norway game is always tops in scrap, thrills and tradition. The game will start at 2 p. m. on Saturday.

Miss Virginia Davis was at home from Gorham Normal School over the week-end.

Clifton Bean of Rumford entered the U. S. Navy Monday, Sept. 28.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

Before Pearl Harbor, the feeling was generally held in this country that Japan was a third-rate military power which could be soundly defeated in a matter of weeks or months. Alleged experts had written that Japan's military equipment was inferior, that her navy was in no way a match for ours, and that she was on the verge of economic collapse. Since December 7, we have learned how tragically wrong those experts were. Japanese planes and ships are excellent in both design and construction. Japanese soldier is crafty, brave, very great, and her generals know the art of warfare. The individual Japanese soldier is crafty, brave, cruel, fearless of death, and fanatically determined on victory.

Up to recently, the bulk of the American people also held another theory concerning Japan, and that the nation was thrust into war by a handful of warlords who controlled the Japanese army, navy and civil government. Once Japanese forces were given sharp set-backs by the United Nations, many reasoned, the warlords would lose face at home and the present military government would be replaced by a popular government which would sue for peace.

This is a heartening theory, perhaps—but, unfortunately, men who are in the best position to understand the Japanese character have small faith in it. Ambassador Grew, who represented the United States in Tokyo for ten years, and who recently returned to this country as part of the exchange of diplomats between belligerents, has made a number of extremely interesting speeches and statements on the subject. Mr. Grew says in essence, that Japanese leaders have completely "sold" the Japanese people on this war. Anti-British and Anti-American propaganda has been an official Japanese activity for many years, and has been carefully nurtured by the controlled Jap press and radio. The unspeakable treatment given captured United Nations soldiers by the Japanese in Hong Kong and elsewhere, is the direct reflection of that propaganda. The ordinary Japanese trooper reflects the point of view of the common people of Japan—and he is as cruel and fanatical as his leaders.

The civilian population of Japan has accepted, apparently willingly sacrifices which are almost incredible. The clothing and food available for civilians is qualitatively and quantitatively bad—everything must go to the army and navy. The masses of the people eke out an existence on rations which would cause swift starvation in most countries. But they don't complain. They are convinced that the price is well worth paying for the "glorious destiny" which their Samurai leaders have promised. They work tremendously long hours, and have little relaxation and no luxuries. Prices have gone up while wages have remained stationary. Yet they look forward with confidence and longing to the day when the United States and Britain will be crushed, and Jap leaders will dictate harsh peace terms in conquered Washington and London.

In the view of some realists, the Jap may, in the long run, prove to be a tougher nut than the German. In the last war, Germany cracked fast once she began to suffer severe defeats. The Teutonic fanaticism is hardly on the same scale as that of the Oriental with his implicit faith that death in battle will be followed by an eternity in the happiest and most abundant of heavens. The Japanese people, these authorities argue, will never accept defeat, or ask for peace. They will go on fighting—and increase their barbaric practices to the very end. Therefore, the only way to beat Japan is to scourge her at home. It is important that we take back the territories she has conquered, with their rich resources—but it will not prove decisive.

The Japanese islands are roughly about the size of the single state of Montana. Inside some 1,500,000 square miles are all the Japanese centers of population, all the Japanese factories, all the Japanese facilities of production and transport and distribution. Due to her lack of coal, she has attained an extraordinarily high degree of electrification and the bulk of her industries are powered from a series of hydro-electric installations in the mountains. Before she can be crushed, it is likely that it will be necessary to knock out these installations, and make her industrially impotent. And that will require air raids on an unprecedented scale. It is generally believed that her defenses against raids, in her vital factory areas, are very good.

The Solomon Islands action marked the start of our offensive in the Pacific. Before that, we were almost entirely engaged in defensive operations. How long it will be before we can take the offensive on a major scale, either in the Pacific or in Europe, is a question that can only be answered by the High Command—and when the time comes, it will speak with deeds, not words. It is a gigantic undertaking and it will be long and arduous.

The OPA has announced that rationing will soon be extended to a number of fields, of which one will probably be clothing. General ration books are now being printed.

Rationing may be used to check excess purchasing power, as well as to protect our supplies of scarce commodities. Many economists seem convinced that it is necessary as a part of the anti-inflation campaign.

Just to make sure, a Midwest youth enlisted in both the Army and Navy. When the Army called him he was at a Naval Training Station.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PHOTOGRAPHIC INVENTORY

A few snapshots of your home, like this for instance, may be of great value in establishing insurance claims if disaster strikes.

DISASTER, whether it strikes in the form of fire, bombs, high winds, or floods, is a dismaying thing. And even though your property may be protected by insurance, did you ever realize that photography may help in the subsequent adjustment and reconstruction? Believe me, that's not fiction—it's fact.

What's the answer? A little personal documentary photography, that's all. Just make a photographic inventory of your personal property, store the prints and negatives in a safe spot . . . not in your home . . . Then if disaster strikes you'll have evidence which will go a long way in establishing your insurance claims where destruction has occurred.

Begin your inventory with some good snapshots of your house. Choose a good sunny day, so that there'll be lots of detail evident, and then make three or four photographs to show all exterior aspects and landscaping. The date and other pertinent information should be written on the back.

Next, make a series of interior photographs, like the picture above, to show all furnishings and valuable possessions. Two pictures of each room are usually sufficient, although in some cases three are necessary to show all the furnishings. You may want to make individual pictures of especially valuable objects, but in general don't worry too much about how the room looks—the important thing is to show all articles plainly and clearly.

Rooms with subdued light require about 30 seconds' exposure at f/16 when your camera is loaded with very fast panchromatic film. Brightly lighted rooms require about 8 seconds' exposure at f/16. But if you're ever in doubt about correct exposure, make three negatives of each scene—one each at 8 seconds, 30 seconds, and 2 minutes at f/16. If your camera is loaded with "chrome" type film, double those exposures. One of them is almost certain to give you satisfactory results.

For a long time the CITIZEN has followed the boys in the armed forces from this locality. During this time it has been a welcome weekly message from home—not taking the place of a letter from home folks, but still a valued reminder of familiar scenes.

The boys tell us: "I certainly appreciate the Citizen and enjoy reading the Bethel news." "I appreciate it very much and look forward to it each week. It has reached me safely in each of the different places where we have been stationed and now it will probably be of interest to you to know that it has found its way over here to England."

Your own son, brother, relative or friend will share this feeling if you send the CITIZEN to him. This may be done by sending us his name and complete address with ONE dollar for a full year's subscription. Please notify us as promptly as you can of all address changes. This half rate applies only to any person serving in the U. S. armed forces.

Cooking With Cold

PLEASE don't think I've got my dates twisted. I've saved this up on purpose. Cold weather meals can't help but become tiresome for lack of inexpensive variety, and you can't beat dishes cooked with cold for appetizing contrast. You know how it is—when you serve a delicious frozen dessert, the simplest meal takes on a party flavor. So it is with all the other cold dishes.

Take fresh fish, chilled and garlicked; chicken in aspic, or molded and jellied meats. True, many of the main dishes must be cooked first, but they have this advantage—you can prepare them when it suits you.

What about leftovers? In the interest of economy, we should make the most of them. Leftover fruits, vegetables and meat all have possibilities of becoming glamorous salads. For instance, green peppers filled with leftover meat, touched up with pimiento, pickle and celery! Chill thoroughly in the refrigerator, slice and serve with a mound of mayonnaise.

Thin soups, like consommé and madrilene, camouflage an otherwise sketchy dinner when hospitality is thrust upon you unawares. Put them in the refrigerator, up next to the freezer, and serve jellied. And thanks to frozen foods, almost all your favorites are at your beck and call no matter where you live. If you go in for them, start cooking while still frozen; if thawed, they're likely to lose their vitamins.

"Economy" Ice Cream Recipe

1 cup coffee cream 1 sugar

To this add the milk, cream, dissolved gelatin and vanilla. Place on bottom shelf of evaporator. Set control to Coldset. Freeze until firm. Remove to chilled bowl, add unbeaten egg whites and beat until fluffy. Return to freezing compartment and continue freezing until firm. Serve 4.

GOULD ACADEMY

Camera Club Meeting

About 30 students, mostly boys, showed up at the first meeting of the Gould Academy Camera Club this term on Friday, Oct. 2.

G. A. Foster, who is to be the faculty advisor and instructor for the club this season, told the members something of the organization's plans for the year, which include print competitions and exhibitions, field trips, and informal lessons in photography. He also mentioned that the club has already subscribed to two of the nation's leading photographic magazines and will build up a library of them and of desirable photographic books in the months to come. Mr. Foster then gave a few rules for composition and illustrated them with his own prints and lantern slides.

The election of officers will be postponed until the members have become better acquainted with each other's abilities.

Science Club Meeting

Gould Academy Science Club held its first meeting of the year this week at Hanscom Hall. The meeting was brief, consisting of a business session, presided over by the president of the club, Louisa Bacon, and a science movie, "Frontiers of the Future." This movie brought home the fact that the future, far from holding no promise, is filled with opportunity; that we have just scratched the surface of an era of new and wonderful things in the field of chemistry.

During the next two weeks the Membership Committee will be busy looking over the qualifications of many applicants seeking membership in this organization. A list of those accepted will be posted before the next meeting.

This meeting will mark the real beginning of the club's activities, which promise to be far reaching, and in step with the critical period we are now facing.

Girls' Athletic Council Meeting

A meeting of the Girls' Athletic Council was held in Hanscom Hall at 8:15 a. m., Tuesday, Oct. 6. It was voted that the girls on the cheer leading squad would receive three points toward earning their "G." The "G" is the highest athletic award an undergraduate girl may receive. To be awarded the "G," a girl must have earned 70 points through participation in group sports, and by individual achievement. Plans were discussed for a fall party, to be held the last of this month or the first of next month, under the supervision of the Athletic Council. Committees were chosen for the preparation of this party, with the following girls as chairmen of their groups: Decorating, Violet Brooks; Refreshments, Patsy O'Brien; Entertainment, Alice Bennett and Barbara Coolidge; Clean-up, Barbara Poole.

For Those We Love

The frost came last night and this morning the tomato plants were limp and black against the ground. I called the children and together we gathered all the green fruit still hanging to the wilted vines. Later on I spent hours getting them ready for the pickling kettle. Some I cut in slices. Others I chopped. Now two great iron pots are bubbling thickly on the stove, sending out the fragrance of cloves and vinegar and onions, sharpened by the touch of basil and tarragon from my herb garden.

It's rich enticing smell, speaking of autumn and home and plenty—and of the peace that is gone from the world. It takes me back to the days of my childhood when all the women on this street made as many preserves and jellies and pickles as they could manage at this season of the year in order to have variety and interest in winter meals.

That was a long time ago. For years now it's hardly been worth while to do much home canning and preserving. Our food industry with its mass production methods has given us old-fashioned delicacies at lower cost than we could produce them ourselves. So many of us had tucked the mason jars back in some dark corner of the cellar and forgotten that there were dozens of jelly glasses on the shelves back of the spider webs. But this year the food industry is taxed to the limit to produce adequate rations for the "best-fed army in the world" and at the same time send millions of pounds of food supplies to our allies overseas. This year there is going to be a shortage for home use of such staples as canned fruits and juices and tomatoes. So housewives like you and me are cooperating with the food industry to meet the situation. We are rolling up our sleeves and going to work as our mothers and grandmothers did before us and "putting up" all the largess from our gardens and orchards.

But, while we may go back to this old-fashioned work, we need never go back to the drudgery and inconveniences our grandmothers contended with. Our manufacturers who must now concentrate on war work, have already provided us with stoves and water systems and refrigerators that would have been unbelievable luxuries to our ancestors. So no matter how much more kitchen work we must do, it will be comparatively easy.

When the war is over, the food industry will once more work for the homes of this nation. Until then, let's be thankful that we can all go back to the homely, satisfying work of preparing good things to eat for those we love!

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The sixteen-inch coast gun is the most powerful of all American guns and costs about $2,000,000 each. It will throw a shell weighing up to a ton many miles. The Coast Guard also has an eight-inch mobile railway gun which will hurl a heavy projectile about 18 miles.

For defense of our homes, the Coast Guard needs many of these powerful weapons. You can do your part to help pay for them by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds and Stamps every payday.

The mess kit is one of the most important items in the Soldier's equipment. It consists generally of a pan, a plastic canteen and cup, a fork, knife and spoon, all in a canvas pack cover. The total cost runs up to about $2.00.

Canteens and other items such as handles on knives and forks, formerly made of aluminum, are now plastic. Alloy has replaced stainless steel. You can buy many of these mess kits for our boys with your purchases of War Bonds and Stamps.

Invest at least 10 percent of your income in War Bonds or Stamps every payday and top the quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department.

A WEEK OF THE WAR

This chain of some 24 islands stretches for 240 miles and the largest of the islands is about 275 miles from Japanese-occupied Kiska and is well adapted for use as an air base. The Navy said U. S. heavy bombers and fighter craft are already operating from air fields in these islands.

During a week of heavy fighting in New Guinea, Gen. MacArthur's ground forces drove the enemy back some 40 miles from a point 32 air miles from the Allied base of Port Moresby past Efogi village, last important Japanese base on the southern side of the Owen Stanley mountains. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported Oct. 5, American Flying Fortresses based in Britain attacked an airplane factory at Meaulte and a German airfield at St. Omer Oct. 2, and returned without losses after shooting down 13 enemy fighters.

U. S. submarines operating in Far Eastern waters sank five enemy ships and probably sank two more, and damaged another. Army, Navy and Marine Corps flyers from Sept. 25 to 28 destroyed 42 Japanese aircraft and damaged three others in the Solomons, without combat loss of any U. S. planes, and hit two enemy cruisers, damaged another ship and probably sank a large transport. The Navy reported the 8,378-ton Naval transport George F. Elliott and the small transport Gregory were sunk in the Solomons but most of their personnel was saved. The Navy announced Oct. 5 that the 1,320-ton submarine Grunion has been overdue in the Pacific for some time and "must be presumed to be lost." The normal complement of the vessel would be 65 officers and men. The torpedo sinking of four more United Nations merchantmen was announced.

War Production
American shipyards produced 93 vessels during September, a rate of three ships a day, the Maritime Commission announced. The total deadweight tonnage of 1,009,800 was the greatest record in world ship-building history, the Commission said, and assures that the goals of 8,000,000 tons this year and 10,000,000 tons next year will be met.
